I agree that we can take a tiny portion of the load off of the PMs if the signed versions go from OPPT IO to the contractor and they send the transmittal letter and the CO to the submitter rather than it getting bottlenecked with the PMs. The contractor could send the PM an email telling them it was sent and when. From what I've been able to gather, the program manager received the signed CO mod, but it hasn't been mailed yet. The PM isn't here today, so it'll go out on Monday.

This helps a lot! Thank you!

I will let them know that it will be signed on Tuesday. Can you send me an email when it is sent to the company?

I can understand their concern about another shutdown and fitting into the window. Apparently OPP has received almost three times the normal number of registration submissions, probably for the same reason.

I'm following up on your question in the hall regarding the phone call you received from AGC Chemicals America. I spoke with the case manager for this submission and she spoke with the consultant for the company just yesterday to let them know the revised consent order was in the signature chain. It's currently on desk (he's out today) and sign on Tuesday. The study they are required to undertake is due on 2/28/19 and the revised order will allow them until July to complete the study and RAD and CCD both support the extension as the study is technically complex and more time is needed. The CCD case manager thinks the Japanese company may be worried that the government will shutdown again. However, we are a bit surprised they reached out to you since CCD and RAD have had frequent contact with the lab undertaking the study and the consultant for the company, again as recently as yesterday.

Hope this helps to clarify. Please let me know if any questions.
